

MODERN LANGUAGE STUDIES

Modern Language Studies is a peer reviewed journal representing the wide-ranging critical and creative interests of Northeast Modern Language Association members. We publish scholarship, fiction and poetry, interviews with writers and artists, reviews, and commentary on the professions of teaching, research, and writing.

We are particularly interested in and welcome submissions of unpublished letters and other primary documents of literary historical interest; translations of creative writing by writers in literatures of the modern languages; and essays on pedagogy, the politics of higher education, graduate and faculty working conditions, and related topics.

Modern Language Studies is edited and produced in its entirety at Susquehanna University. For submission guidelines visit www.modernlanguagestudies.org. Send submissions, subscription inquiries, and correspondence to mls@susqu.edu.

Approaches to Teaching WORLD LITERATURE

APPROACHES TO TEACHING
Tolkien's
The Lord of the Rings
and Other Works

Edited by LESLIE A. DONOVAN

"This work fills a major need. It will give students and professors alike the confidence to teach Tolkien and the ability to construct a meaningful and challenging course."

—Janet Brennan Croft
University of Oklahoma

Although a philologist and scholar, J. R. R. Tolkien set out only to write a story that he and his friends would enjoy reading. In The Hobbit and in The Lord of the Rings, he created an entire world informed by his vast knowledge of mythology, languages, and medieval literature. Today, the readership for Tolkien's absorbing secondary world—filled with monsters, magic, adventure, sacrifice, and heroism—continues to grow.
